MRS. SPRAGUE GONE.

REVIVAL OF THE SPRAGUE-CONKLING SCANDAL.

Mrs. Sprague Suddenly Disappears from Canonchet Mansion, Taking Her Three Daughters with Her.

NEW YORK, September 1.—The Times' special from Narragansett Pier, R. I., states that Mrs. ex-Governor Sprague left her home at Canonchet Saturday, taking with her her three daughters, and adds: This latest step not only revives the scandal, but presents some new phases of it and freshly kindles public interest as to what the outcome of the whole matter will be. Mrs. Sprague went away, it is understood, without her husband's consent, and despite, not only his, but as would seem, other and more patent opposition. It was stated soon after the unhappy lady's return to her home, that she was immediately placed under espionage. Though this was denied by various friends of the persons most interested, the belief has been general here that the statement was true, and that suvillance was maintained up to the time of Mrs. Sprague's departure. It is stated that every movement of Mrs. Sprague, since the scandal became public, with the notable exception of this unexpected departure, has been made under the direction and at the dictation of Senator Conkling. It is believed here that within a day or two ex-Governor Sprague will make a full and explicit statement of his side of the case.

A special to the Sun states that Mrs. Sprague left Canonchet mansion because of ill treatment and violence on the part of her husband, and that she made her escape only by eluding the vigilance of her husband, who endeavored to prevent it, and even made an unsuccessful attempt to find her on one of the trains. It is surmised she left on a steam yacht. Governor Sprague's son remains with him.

Yellow Fever.

MEMPHIS, September 1.—Eight new cases, seven white and one colored were reported this morning among the number were: Morgan McHugh, Mrs. Mattie Dean, Jack Wright, Louis Smith, Mary M. Beattie. Four deaths have occurred since last night: Ada Hurst, Laws Richland, Eda Arnold, James Mead. A D Langstaff, President of the Howard Association, left this morning. He will visit the principal cities of the Northeast and West in the interest of the association to counsel with those parties who so nobly aided in soliciting contributions for relief of the yellow fever sufferers at Memphis last night.

MEMPHIS, September 1.—Sixteen cases, thirteen white and three colored, were reported to-day. Four additional interments have been reported by the undertakers: Walter R. Lucas, William H. West, Mrs. W. G. Richardson and David P. House. The city is being thoroughly disinfected under the direction of the State Board of Health officials. Dr. John Gordon, the physician sent by the Howards to Julian Bedford, at Bailey's, Tennessee, returned this afternoon, and reports him down with a genuine case of yellow fever. W. H. Joyce, book-keeper at the Western Union Telegraph office, of this city, was stricken at noon. The Howards placed thirty additional nurses on duty to-day. The weather is cloudy. The thermometer has ranged between 68° and 80° to-day.

Wages of 50,000 Working Men Reduced.

LONDON, September 1.—Owing to the depression in trade and foreign competition in earthenware and Chinaware, the manufacturers of Staffordshire have resolved on a reduction of the wages of employees, which will affect over 50,000 workmen. The colliery proprietors at the Burnley coal fields gave notice last Saturday of a reduction of 5 per cent. in the wages of their colliers.

Last Saturday about two hundred left Liverpool for America.

The reduction of wages of the employees of the Staffordshire earthenware and China manufacturers is partly attributed to American protective duties. The employers desire to return to the scale of wages paid in 1871, and it is expected that the men will submit to the reduction.

Financial.

LONDON, September 1.—The Financier says it is understood that 176,141 pounds worth of bar gold due from the East will go to meet the American demand of one hundred thousand pounds brought by the steamer Para last week has already been disposed of for America, one hundred and eighty thousand pounds due from the East on the 28th as these amounts are all that are now in transit from the East the whole of whatever the demand may arise from the United States will fall on the stock held by the bank of England unless remittances from France come to our aid.

Destitute Working Men.

LONDON, September 1.—Thomas W. Booker & Co.'s sheet-iron and tin-plate works, near Cardiff, which has been in constant operation since 1740, were closed Saturday by order of the official liquidator of the west England and south Wales district bank, and fifteen thousand workmen were paid off. Three villages had grown up around the works of inhabitants consisting solely of working people and their families, and these, numbering six thousand, are now destitute.

Another Strike.

CUMBERLAND, September 1.—Two thousand miners and five hundred laborers were thrown out of work in this region this morning, by the strike, resolved upon in consequence of the refusal of the coal companies to advance the rates for mining to fifty cents per ton.

De Young Admitted to Bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 1.—Chas. De Young was to-day admitted to bail by Chief Justice Wallace in the sum of $25,000.

Murdered to Secure Insurance Money

READING, Pa., September 1.—Charles Drew, one of the prisoners under sentence of death for the murder of William Raber, with a view to secure the amount of his life insurance, has made a full confession. He admits that he and his confederates procured the insurance on Raber's life, with the deliberate intention of killing him, but claims that he himself acted under threats and compulsion. They pushed Raber from a plank while crossing the stream, and held him under the water until he was dead, leaving it to be supposed, when his body was found, that he was drowned accidentally. This was the second time they had insured Raber's life with the intention of killing him. The first attempt was frustrated by the failure of the insurance company.

It is now rumored that Kalloch's condition was not so precarious as at first reported, and that the report was started for the purpose of creating sympathy in his behalf. At any rate it is now pretty generally conceded that he will recover.

The cavalry company in Charlotte is a success. The company now numbers forty-five, and additions to the force are made at every meeting. They select their uniform next Saturday.

They are having a huge time of it in Virginia over the State debt. At a meeting held in Surry county last week, one speaker called another a "falsehood," and the whole thing came near terminating in a big row.

The State tax in Alabama is 70 cents on the one hundred dollars' worth of property; in Arkansas, 60; in Florida, 98; in Georgia, 50; in Missouri, 40; in Kentucky, 40; in Louisiana, $1.45; in Mississippi, 50; in South Carolina, 45, in Texas, 50; in Virginia, 50, and in North Carolina, the lowest of all, 38 cents.

Colonel John M. Robinson, president of the Seaboard and Roanoke railroad, has ordered that the pay of the late W. W. Weymouth, the engineer who was recently killed near Suffolk while performing his duty, be continued to his widow until January next. The company will pay all the funeral expenses and will erect a monument to his memory.

In the railroad investigation at Saratoga, N. J., Saturday, Mr. Stein, a special accountant, testified that an examination of Erie's accounts showed that Jay Gould had issued stock just prior to the appointment of a receiver for the road which produced $12,000,000 or $13,000,000. John B. Dutcher testified to the high prices charged shippers of stock for yardage, provender, etc.

By the steamship Erin, which sailed from New York Saturday, Mr. Pierre Lorillard shipped nine high-spirited racers for England. The flyers were Falsetto, the great three-year-old, for which Mr. Lorillard recently paid $18,000, and the well-bred yearlings Santee, Iriquois, Passaic, Dakota, Wyandotte, Paw-Paw, Mohawk and Seneca. With Mr. Lorillard's horses were five yearlings, owned by Colonel M. B. Sanford, who sailed for Europe Saturday.

Yesterday was a field day with the speakers on the State debt question in Virginia. Hon. John Goode was booked for Isle of Wight courthouse; Hon. W. F. Gregory, and others, for Charlotte courthouse; Dr. Curry at Spotsylvania; Gen. W. B. Taliaferro at Gloucester; Judge Allen, Major Daniel and others, at Winchester; and various and sundry others at different places.

Truly, they may be said to be fully into the business. All of the above represent the conservative side of the question.

A Platinum Mine for $20,000.

Charlotte Observer.

Some time ago, the fact that Edison, the inventor, had written to several gentlemen in this immediate section of the country, making inquiry as to the existence of plantinum in the mines hereabouts, was mentioned in the Observer. It is now learned that Prof. W. E. Hidden, of Menlo Park, N. J., is in Henderson county, in consultation with Gen. Clingman and others, in reference to this subject, having been sent out by Mr. Edison himself. He desires a very large quantity of this metal for use in his recently patented electric light, and it is said will pay $20,000 for a good mine of platinum. Our information is that Prof. Hidden is satisfied that to this section of North Carolina he must look for the metal now so much in demand. Miners would therefore do well to keep a sharp look out for it. It is frequently found associated with gold in varying quantities.

Grant Declines Again, With an "If."

Philadelphia Times.

WASHINGTON, August 29.—A letter received from New England in this city to-day says that Elihu B. Washburne, who is summering on the Maine coast, has recently received a letter from General Grant, in which the latter says that those who think that he (Grant) is coming home to enter into a Presidential canvass will be mistaken. He (Grant) has been President for eight years; has had whatever honor attaches to that position, and he does not desire to be President again and does not conceive of any possible circumstances which could make him consent to be a candidate. Still, if it should happen at any time that the Republican party should need him for any purpose, he would not fail them.

FROM THE LATE MAILS.

SOME NEWS FROM THE NORTH NOT TELEGRAPHED.

A Proposed Naval Review---Decline in Ship-Building---State vs. National Banks.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Secretary of the Navy gives notice that early in October he intends having a grand review in Hampton roads of the naval vessels now in use as practice ships for the education of American boys as sailors. There will be a fleet drill, a sham battle and maneuvers of all sorts. The Secretary expects the review to work great good in many respects. It seems that it is a difficult manner to secure good native seamen to man our ships of war, and as a consequence our sailors are mostly foreigners. As the pay is better and the work lighter in our service than in that of other countries, foreigners prefer to enlist with us. The Secretary thinks this state of affairs would work to our disadvantage in the event of war, and hence his desire to educate and train our native-born boys for the service.

A WANING INDUSTRY.

The returns received at the Treasury Department of the ship-building of the country for the first nine months of the last fiscal year show that there has not been the same progress in this industry as in others, and that it has by no means gained the magnitude that it formerly enjoyed. The nine months show new vessels to have been built representing 143,171 tons, and from this the estimate for the whole year is placed at 195,000, as against 235,501 tons in 1878, and 176,592 in 1877. The tonnage of sailing vessels built has fallen from 106,331 in 1877, and 106,067 in 1878 to 53,129 in the nine months of 1879. The tonnage of steam vessels built during the nine months of 1879 is 63,865, as against 81,860 for the year of 1878, and 47,514 for the year of 1877. The growth of steam tonnage has been gradual for the last few years, while the sailing tonnage has been on a corresponing decline.

A GOOD SHOWING.

The comptroller of the currency says that from reports he has received from the examiners of national banks in Illinois and Missouri the comparison of losses to creditors between those banks ahd State banks is largely against the State institutions. The losses to creditors in Missouri through State banks and private bankers since 1876 have been $2,200,000, while the losses through national banks in the same State since their organization, fifteen years ago, have been less than $1,000,000. In the State of Illinois the losses since 1874 have been $3,500,000 by private banks, while the losses of the national banks since their establishment in 1873 have been less than one and a half millions. The total losses to creditors, through private banks in Illinois within the last five years have been more than three-fourth of the total losses of all the national banks in the country since the system was created.

MILLIONS OF CURRENCY DESTROYED.

Since 1861, when the act of Congress providing for the destruction of mutilated and otherwise defective currency first went into effect, up to the first week of August, ultimo, there have been redeemed and destroyed by fire at the Treasury Department, $2,631,187,014.47 in government notes that have circulated as a legal tender, inclusive of the notes of national banks that have suspended. The greatest amount burned was in 1873, $140,947,583.27. During the last fiscal year the amount destroyed was $112,000,000.

An Interesting Letter from a Raleigh Boy on a Trip for Health.

LOUISBURG, August 29.—NEWS: A "Raleigh boy" on his travels naturally likes to talk to the NEWS. Leaving that beautiful city yesterday at 3:45 p. m. our friend Captain Henry T. Coley the efficient conductor in charge, we passed by the little towns along the the route until we came to big Durham, saw the Bull, and a bustling crowd, many grand houses, (from the car-window) new frames of buildings, immense warehouses, trains of wagons, and every evidence of thrift and energy. I could not but wish Raleigh had a few such warehouses and busy men. On we go by historic Hillsboro, the beautiful grounds of the Bingham School. Haw River, Graham, Company Shops, where we had a capitol supper, and thanks to Capt. Henry aforesaid, plenty of time to eat it, reaching Greensboro half asleep.

I was sorry to note the effects of the drought, or poor culture, or something. Corn was small in many places and the fodder would have to be pushed off instead of pulled, I fear. Tobacco, however, was looking well, and that is, I guess, the money crop, as cotton is with us.

From Greensboro to Danville we hurried along. I was too sleepy to note much. The moonlight was lovely, and the glistening dew and faintly gleaming stars caught my eyes, when open, more than crops and towns. We had chairs in this train; supposed to be more comfortable. Perhaps they are in drawing rooms; but one couldn't loll easily or occupy two of them, which, you know, is a great disappointment to those who travel only once a year. They had one advantage; they turned around on a pivot like a teacher's chair, and one could turn and see the pretty girls all over the car (if they were there). I felt ashamed to do it, but as everybody else did, I followed the fashion.

At Danville I changed cars again, or rather at Dundee, which is simply "Danville beyond the Dan." From Dan I went not to Beersheba, but to this interesting city of hills and tobacco, arriving about 1 o'clock. I heard two passengers discussing whether it was one p. m. or one a. m., and they harmonized on both, provided p. m. stood for past midnight, or a. m. for after midnight. You know now what time it was.

You have perhaps no Lynchburg advertisements, and I am not paid to puff. I am at the Nowell House, a capital place. This city has always been an interesting one to me. Such hills! Many of them are impassable, except in the winter time on a sled. I suppose a man might now roll down some of the streets. But pluck, energy and perseverance can overcome even such difficulties. What makes Lynchburg is what makes Durham. Reidsville, Winston and Danville, tobacco; and the "Sweet South" breathes here not over a bank of violets, but what people call "the fragrant weed." In addition there are several iron works, the immense water-power of the James river turning many a mill and lathe and roller.

And again for my beautiful native city I wished that enterprise and capital would add to its real prosperity by tobacco factories, cotton mills, and all sorts of manufactories.

Many people whom I have met speak kindly of Raleigh. But I heard a criticism repeated more than once which amused me and may be worth writing: "Raleigh people don't blow enough," said a live Lynchburg merchant this morning. "We don't know what you do down there," said another. "Why don't you read the papers," I answered, And then "blew a blast." Maybe Raleigh does not "blow enough," but I think I know some places that do, and some nearer home than Lynchburg. I see placarded all over these streets under the very noses of the tobacco kings here in letters immense, "Smoke Blackwell's Durham Tobacco." Winston, Charlotte and Atlanta, are placarded too, but I see "Raleigh" nowhere.

MOORE.

SANFORD, Aug. 29.—Sunshine has come again. The rains have very much revived the crops. During the summer drought there were parts of the county near by us that were blessed with occasional showers, and have not suffered at all. Some have complained of late excess of rain. You know every one cannot be edified, but I think every body is glad to see the sun again. The cotton has perhaps run too much to weed. Early corn was cut short by the drought, bottom lands are somewhat "drownded" yet the crops average fairly.

Col. Neil McKay, formerly solicitor for this district, now residing here, is having a handsome porch put to his house, and other substantial improvements. He will have a very pretty home, the site is fine, and a spacious residence and large yard already make the place attractive.

Rev. Mr. Klapp in also building on a beautiful situation a neat and comfortable residence. You will be glad to note these improvements.

Still more noticeable improvements have been made in the country. About a mile and a half from Sanford. In a large and venerable oak grove has been recently built one of the handsomest and convenient country churches I have ever seen. The old and influential congregation known as Buffalo church, have built a new house of worship, which has been occupied, though not not yet furnished, two or three Sundays. The design is tasteful. I may say beautiful, and the workmanship every creditable to the contractor, J. B. Masemore. Rev. Wm. S. Lacy, a native of your city I understand, is the Pastor. He left yesterday for a trip to the mountains of Virginia. I learn that Rev. Mr. Burwell of Peace Institute is to occupy his pulpit on Sunday.

H. J.

DAVIE.

ELBAVILLE, Aug. 29,—The weather is cold and cloudy with occasional showers. Now cool and fair.

Trade is improving, blackberries gone up to six cents, and country merchants rejoicing.

James M. Johnson was married to Miss Smith, the former about 60, and the latter 30 years.

A. Caton, and a negro, Giles Cornatzer, had a quarrel on Sunday morning last, the negro drew an axe. They were before the Magistrate to-day.

The people of Davie vs. Mooresville and Winston Railroad Injunction, forbidding the company issuing county bonds in aid of said road, is tobe tried before Judge Kerr, at Davidson court, 5th of September.

Watson McCorkle, for people, and Mocksville bar for the Railroad. This is now, the all absorbing topic in Davie.

Bob Macham had his right hand torn up by Hunter's steam saw mill, it was amputated above the wrist he is doing well.

The Baptists meet in convention today at Fork Church. Their new academy at that place opened last Monday with 20 pupils.

The corn, cotton and tobbacco crops are looking well. Preparation for a large wheat crop.

By the vote of the people, the proposition to aid the above railroad, failed by 2 votes, but through the board that decision was changed to 4 votes in favor of subscription. Then the injunction and appeal to the Courts for relief mentioned above.

GUILFORD.

GREENSBORO, August 30.—The body of Thomas P. Bowman, who was hanged at Asheboro yesterday, was here to-day and exposed to view on the street, being plainly dressed in black, in a plain pine coffin, no sheet, no paint, with the black cap still over his head, having been moved back from the face and the coffin put in such a position that he might be photographed, which was done. One side of the face was badly discolored, purging from the nose and apparently swollen about the neck. His friends were taking him over to Rockingham for burial. A short outline of his life, as written by himself, has been circulating to-day. Will try to get you a copy. The crowd at Asheboro is represented as immense, and many persons viewed the body here to-day. He denied the deed to the last.

FORSYTHE.

WINSTON, August 28.—The weather is warm and fair. Trade is very lively. The most cheering reports come in from the country, saying that most excellent crops of wheat, oats, corn and tobacco are certain.

Louis cook was caught in the store of Hinshaw & Brothers stealing beeswax by throwing it out of the back window, and then carrying it off in a sack and selling it to merchants. He was arrested, tried and "sacked" for the season. He had been "waxing" in this style for weeks.

A farm belonging to A. Louis, containing 450 acres, located in Stokes county, was sold to day for $1,050, under forclosure of mortgage. It was bought by Mr. B. Bynum.

A number of handsome ladies were present at the sales in Lashe's warehouse to-day. Quite a new feature in the tobacco business.

The NEWS comes regularly and is acknowledged by all to be the newsiest paper in the State. Long may it wave.

LENOIR.

KINSTON, September 1.—The weather has been pleasant for the past week.

Little Daisy, daughter of Captain S. B. and Sarah West, died August 29th. Aged one year and six months.

There was a pic nic at Mr. W. F. Loftin's mill last Thursday. Everybody had enough to eat, I believe, and enjoyed themselves hugely.

Mr Sherman's Great Knowledge of the Democratic Platform.

New York World.

We find Mr. Sherman saying at Steubenville that the Democratic party of Ohio, "both in its platform and in its candidates, supports, more or less, certain dogmas," which he thus describes: (1) An issue of an almost unlimited amount of irredeemable paper money; (2) a destruction of the system of national banks, and (3) a calling in and paying off all the United States bonds with irredeemable money. Now there may possibly be somewhere in in the East a village, town, county, city or State Department organization which "supports" such dreary nonsense as this, but we venture to say that no Democrat who reads this journal has ever heard of such an organization.

HORSE THIEF ARTISTS.

SKILL ARTISTS TRANSFORMING STOLEN EQUINES.

Changed to all Kind of Colors to Prevent Identification---Their Headquarters.

Chicago Times.

The Times has, on different occasions, noted prevalence of horse-thieving in this part of the world, and mildly speculated as to weether it was the work of an organized gang or of isolated crooks. Researches undertaken by Lieutenant Bonfield, of the West Madison-street station, within the last few days, have pretty well settled this question and alone much toward breaking up a dangerous organization of thieves which, while making Chicago its headquaters, has not confined its exploits to any particular section of the country east of the Misssouri. Thestory of the way in which the rascals were unearthed, runs something in this wise: On the night of July 24th, Henry Kutch, of Bremen, Cook county, lost from his barn a valuable span of horses and a light buggy. Twenty-four hours later, Mr. A. Butterfield, of Marseilles, was despoiled to a similar extent. Both these cases found their way to Madison street station, and Lieutenant Bonfield, on hearing of them, concluded that perhaps a resident of his own bailiwick "up south" might know of the stolen property. It was of course.

ONE THING TO SUSPECT A MAN,

but a far more, difficult task to prove him worthy of arrest. So the Lieutenant, knowing the difficulties which lay before him, adopted a novel and ingenious plan. He wanted to get his men in a barn kept by a man named Rawson, at the corner of Twenty-eighth and State streets, and be also wanted to accomplish this without arousing any suspicion. So four policemen were detailed to do the business, two wearing plain clothes and two in uniform. They proceeded to the scene of action separately. The lads in citizen's garb were a block or so ahead. When they reached the stable they rushed in and through, and disappeared via the back door. In followed the uniformed patrolmen, breathless and with clubs drawn.

"Did you see two men come in here?" they asked.

"Yes," was the reply, "but they didn't stop."

"Well, they're desperate villains, and may be you're mistaken about their going out. We don't suppose you'll object to our looking about the place for them a bit?"

"Of course not; go ahead; but I tell you they've gone."

The coppers began their pseudo search and soon fell afoul.

TWO OF THE MISSING HORSES.

They took them away, leaving Rawson to curse his luck and think the discovery had been made by accident. So far the result was highly satisactory, but Kutch had as yet failed to get any trace of his wagon and harness. Bonfield knew that the police "racket" could not well be worked twice on the same parties, so he laid out a new scheme, with Kutch as the principal actor therein. He sent the honest old German out to a saloon in the neighborhood which was known to be a sort of rendezvous for the suspected parties. Here Kutch sat and drank lager and talked. He wanted to buy a horse—perhaps two, for the matter—and he would pay a good price. He seemed an elegant "mark," and he was forthwith taken over to Rawson's livery stable, where he saw, lying about, the fly-nests and neck-yoke which were a portion of the goods he had lost. He selected the horses he wanted, and then suggested that he would buy a wagon if he could get a bargain in that line. No sooner had he made the remark than the boys at the corner of Twenty-sixth street and Cottage-grove avenue. The barn had boards off all about, and looked as though deserted, while the yard in connection with it was concealed from improper scrutiny by a high fence. Inside there ranged a long array of vehicles of every nature and description, but in all the lot Kutch couldn't see his own. He used his eyes to good advantage, however, for he noticed that the basement to the tumble-down barn was substantial and evidently in use. He also got a squint at the buggy lost by Butterfield, and learned that the "owner" of the stuff was one Frayne, alias Reed. Armed with this intelligence he came down town and reported. It looked like a good case, and Kutch, at the suggestion of Lieutenant Bonfield, swore out warrants for the arrest of Reed and Rawson. These men, as will be remembered, were captured a day or two ago, and after a preliminary hearing, held to the criminal court in bonds of $1,500 each. Now comes

STEERED HIM TO A PLACE

THE SEQUEL.

After the apprehension of these parties the subterranean stable at the corner of Twenty-sixth street and Cottage grove avenue was entered and examined. It was found fitted up with box-stalls and all conveniences for equine comfort, while among the furniture of the place were all sorts of implements and drugs for so transforming a horse that the owner might buy him and never know the deceit. Another important discovery was also made on yesterday, in the finding of a shop at the corner of Thirty-fifth and Vincennes streets, where carriages and vehicles of all sorts are put through the transformation act with neatness and dispatch. It was as well ascertained that one of the recently stolen horses had been ostensibly sold to a man named Donahoe, who hangs out at Thirteenth and State streets. Indeed, up to ten o'clock on last night, Lieutenant Bonfield was not only in possession of the facts detailed above, but also of additional "pointers" which go to show that the places mentioned are the comprising at least a score of persons, and operating throughout Illinois and Iowa. Had the raid on Frayne's "ruined" stable been delayed one night, it is now known that no less than six valuable horses, believed to have been stolen, might have been captured. The operations of these parties have hitherto escaped detection, but now that some of them are in the toils, it is believed that less buggies will change paint and form, and fewer horses go into the stall bays and come out mouse-colored and with changed tails.

HEADQUARTERS OF A GANG

Attack upon a Merchant and Robbery.

Durham Tobacco Plant.

Our friend Cager Coley, of Dutchville, was in town yesterday and tells us that on Satirday night last, two negroes went to the store of John T. Bullock at Mt. Energy, made a purchase of about $30 worth of goods, and while Mr. Bullock was making out a bill one of them drew a large stick from under his coat and struck him asevere blow on the head. The other negro gathered the goods and departed. When an attempt was made to strike a second blow Mr. Bullock caught the stick and a scuffle followed. A colored man who resided some fifty yards from the store heard the alarm and ran to the assistance of Bullock when the robbers fled. A physician was called in and the wounds of Mr. Bullock dressed and he is doing well. One of the negroes is large and black, and the other of similar size, but of yellow complexion. They were at the store during the morning and were accompanied by a strange white man, and it is believed he was in close proximity and an accomplice when the attack was made on the store. They have succeeded in evading the officers up to this time.

GEN. HOOD'S DEATH.

"Joseph E. Johnston, the greatest living military man on the continent."

Washington Gazette, 31st.

The telegrams yesterday bring us the distressing news of General J. B. Hood's death by yellow fever at New Orleans. General Hood entered the Confederate army from Texas, and made a reputation as division commander only equalled in that capacity by the famous George E. Pickett. General Hood was badly mutilated, having lost a leg, and being otherwise wounded. He was so highly thought of by Mr. Jeff Davis, that he was appointed to succeed General Joseph E. Johnston, the greatest living military man to-day upon our continent. In this position his military knowledge was unequalled by his indiscretions, and hence Sherman reached the sea, which he would never have done had Hood commanded a division and General Johnston the army.

After the war General Hood embarked in the commission business at New Orleans, with, we believe, General Longstreet, and they were in this undertaking separated by politics, which left Hood in New Orleans to battle honestly for his bread and meat, whereby he lost his life, while Longstreet strayed off to follow strange gods to his pecuniary interest at the sacrifice of his own self-respect.

A Statement.

Correspondence of the News.

BEAUFORT, N. C., September 1.—Although I may subject myself to the charge of doing something "unseemly," I respectfully ask the NEWS to publish this communication:

The sufferings of the people of the town of Beaufort and county of Carteret, caused by the storm of the 18th ult., I shall not undertake to describe. What I have done with reference to these, I shall not undertake to defend. The judgment of people, as well as their tastes, will differ; so let them differ.

The town of Beaufort has been made prominent in all appeals to the public for aid. Why has this been the case? There were a large number of visitors here at the time, and they felt and saw what the storm did. They left as soon as possible, and the news went abroad that the principal portion of the town was in ruins. The papers sent forth accounts of the terrible destruction all over the country, and hence, the public very naturally concluded that the town was the great sufferer. The county was the great sufferer. The county was lost sight of, and to this point I wish to direct attention.

The southern front of Carteret county is swept for nearly one hundred miles, by the Atlantic Ocean. It is about fifteen miles wide at the broadest point. It contains a population, in round numbers, of about ten thousand.

It is cut up by creeks and rivers which find an outlet in the sound, and by bays extending from the sound, landwards. Thus situated, and exposed to the fury of both wind and water, the public may form some idea of the damage done. Some sections suffered more severely than others. In some instances the destruction is complete, even the crop of sweet potatoes, which was just coming into service, being entirely ruined by the salt tide sweeping over and washing them up. The cry of distress is heard from those who never uttered it before.

Now, what is to be done? Those who can make out to keep the wolf from their own doors, are so crippled that they cant help keep him away from others. Before the storm county scrip was a drag at 50 cents on dollar, and I hardly think any one would want it now at any price. The county is hopelessly in debt and the commissioners have mandamuses filed upon them until they cant rest.

The town, as a corporation, is in the pridicament. Since the restoration of the charter, and since the present management have had control, no debt has been contracted. We have worked within our income, but old debts, contracted before the war, hang over us, and the sins of our fathers are being visited upon us in the shape of writs of mandamus which we must answer at the next term of our Superior Court.

What I have stated are simple facts, and they could be multiplied to greater numbers had I the time or the inclination to do so.

The whole thing may be simmered down to this: The worst has not come, and unless relief comes from abroad my decided opinion is, that in a short time starvation will look numbers of the people of this county squarely in the face, only the other day, a mother stated to our Register with tears in her eyes, that her children went to bed the night before crying for bread, and that she had prayed to God to to take them out of the world that they might escape the miseries of starvation. Think of that! Here I could paint a picture, but I must confine myself to stubborn facts.

Now, Mr. Editor, after all the appeals which have been made (and none have given more prominence to these misfortunes than yourself) both in the State and out of the State, there has come into my hands from all sources, up to this date the sum of $250.32. Of this sum, I have received from Wilmington $150.00. Durham, $36.00. Greensboro, $32.27. New Berne, 32.27. Private $1.00. This much has come into my hands. What others may have I know not.

I hope this statement will notify the feelings of that huge sheet ——, well, I won't say.

L. W. MARTIN,
Mayor.

Post Office Robbed.

New Berne Democrat, 1st.

We learn, that on one day last week, while Mr. Corson, the post master at Washington, N. C., was absent at his dinner, and while Capt. Warner, who occupies the adjoining store was also away, that some party unknown effected an entrance through the rear door of the office, and robbed the drawer of about $200. A negro, whom suspicion strongly pointed, was arrested and carried before an United States Commissioner, but the evidence was not direct or convincing enough to warrant his committal for trial.

Many a man thinks that it is his goodness that keeps him from crime, when it is only his full stomach. On half allowance, he would be as ugly and knavish as anybody. Don't mistake potatoes for principles, or counterfeits for Blackwell's Fragrant Durham Bull Smoking Tobacco.

"NOT A WORD OB TRUFE."

CHASTINE COX NOT HANGED ON FRIDAY.

The Latest Sensation Regarding the Murder of Mrs. Hull—What a Boston Letter Discloses Regarding It.

New York News, 30th.

Yesterday was the day appointed for the execution of Chastine Cox, but the law stepped in and delayed the hanging. It has been generally known in criminal circles, and among the police for some time past, that certain evidence for Cox's defense was not used. It has been ascertained that a negro woman named Birdie Johnson, residing in Ann street, a hair-dresser by occupation, made affidavit that, while waiting on a lady customer up town, she heard several men conversing regarding the murder in an adjoining room, and that the conversation, as she heard it, disclosed the fact that one of their party, and not Cox, was the murderer of Mrs. Hull. Messrs. Howe & Hummell declined to use this testimony, believing it calculated to injure the case of their client. To-day counsel received the following letter, postmarked Boston, Aug. 28, 1879:

ST. JAMES HOTEL, BOSTON.

On the night of the Hull tragedy, Cox was met by two men at Forty-second street park, New York City. They were both masked. Cox had a talk with them. This was about midnight, between twelve and one o'clock. Cox and the two men above mentioned took an oath never to reveal what that conversation was or what it had reference to. They went to the Hull mansion. The window by which Cox entered the Hull mansion was opened inside by those two men. They spoke in an undertone, so that Cox could not understand what they were talking about. He was directed by them to proceed to Mrs. Hull's room and get some papers from a drawer or trunk, and for so doing would be rewarded by having their permission to get some jewelry which was with the papers. Said papers are now in the possession of the man who at first was suspected of being the perpetrator of the tragedy. He wanted to get those papers because he had heard Mrs. Hull remark something about making a will which would be unfavorable to him, and he wanted to get them without doing her any bodily injury, and none was intended. The reason I write this is, I was promised $150 from the old man, but only received $100 from him. I keep my name secret because I don't want to get into any trouble over this affair. Cox did not get the papers, but after he went away others got them.

Armed with a copy of the letter, the reporter called on Cox in the Tombs. When the letter was read to him Cox smiled, and said: "There isn't a blessed word of trufe in the whole of it." He then entered into conversation with Messrs. John S. and R. A. Wise, sons of ex-Governor Wise, of Virginia, in whose family his mother had been a servant for many years.

A STREAK OF LUCK.

The Astonishment of a Worthy Passenjaire.

New York Star.

It is a hard matter for a man living two squares from the street railroad to catch a car. His life is a continuous vexation. He starts too soon or too late. He sees the car coming when he is a square and a half away. If he hails the cor at that distance he gets himself disliked by all the passengers, to say nothing of wind on a keen run. If he waits he is miserable, because he is always in a hurry. Waiting is horrible.

Yesterday a man (and he happens to have a prejudice against base ball) saw the car passing, just as he had turned his corner, two squares away.

"Dod rot the durned thing! Confound my unlucky buttons! Thunder! Jimmy! Here's another wait!" And he went on swearing a whole string of slmilar horrifying oaths.

He had gone but a few steps further when another car passed. Great was his astonishment.

"Worse and worse! Great Cæsar! If I'd only known there was another car (it never had happened before) I might have hurried up and caught it. Dang my everlasting picture to Ohio, I say!"

He walked on until within half a square of the street railroad, when, lo and behold! there appeared still another car going his way.

He raised his umbrella, called "Hi! hi!" and broke for the car, which he actually succeeded in reaching.

"Driver," said he, when he had got aboard, "driver, what does this mean, hey? I've seen a dozen cars going the wrong way at once, but this is the first time I ever saw more than one going the right way."

The driver simply said, "It's the base ball match."

"The base ball match!" gasped the inquirer. "Well, I'll be—no, I won't; I'll take it all back. I'll never say another word against base ball. Three cars going my way at once. I never would have believed it—never. Oh, that I might embrace the inventor of the noblest of games!"

And the cars rumbled and tinkled along, while the grateful passenjaire beamed out on the varying landscape.

Arrest of Dr. E. R. Williamson.

Durham Tobacco Plant.

On last Thursday morning Dr. E. R. Williamson was arrested in Chapel Hill on a warrant issued by Commissioner Strayhorn and in the hands of Colonel Thomas B. Long. He is charged with the crime of attempting to defame the character of a young lady of the same village by means of postal cards upon which was written matter of a most slanderous and obscene nature. Two of these cards were mailed at Durham, one purporting to have been written at Raleigh the other at some point in Virginia. If he is guilty he ought to be punished to the full extent of the law. Since the above was in type he has been tried and discharged.

The Death Bite.

In speaking of Bowman, the wife-poisoner, who was hung at Ashboro last Friday, the Charlotte Observer says:

One of the most important links in the chain of evidence that bound the wife-murderer, was forgotten in the haste of writing. It was proved on the trial that Mrs. Bowman had said more than once to a neighbor that if her husband ever poisoned her she would put a mark on him, by a bite or otherwise, that would hang him. It was further in evidence that on the day she died, a neighbor at the house asked Bowman what had been her symptoms. He described these and said, among other things, that just before her death, and while struggling in the agonies of dissolution, she had caught him around the neck, held him fast and tried to bite him in the face. The prosecution made good use of this point.

DAILY NEWS

GEO. C. JORDAN, Editor and Prop'r.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1879.

THE New York Tribune has attacked the Southern States on the ground of insolvency, and classes each and every one of them as having repudiated their debts. As the agent of the financial genius that controls the tall tower wrecking machine promises to give the course pursued by each State in detail, we await his showing of North Carolina.

QUEEN VICTORIA, with all her pride of national conquest, is apparently anxious to heal the wounds of war. It is related that some one lately passing in Windsor Great Park the Culloden monument raised by the Duke of Cumberland was greatly struck by the splendid growth of ivy round the base of the column. A remark upon its beauty called out the reply: "Yes, that is by the Queen's orders, in order that the ivy may hide the inscription recording the defeat of the Highlanders."

JUDGING from an editorial in the Raleigh NEWS of a late date, headed "Wanted—A Governor," we would say it was evidently calling for a "H(o)alt in the Governorship business! —Monroe Enquirer.

Perhaps in the foregoing the wish is father to the thought. When we published the article spoken of we were advocating principles not men—referring more to the needs of the State than of party, and only intended to provoke discussion on the subject. Should we see fit to advocate the claims of this or that candidate for gubernatorial honors before the nominating convention meets, the Enquirer may rest assured that it will be in no uncertain tones.

THE intention of Congress to put in the hands of the people at once a circulating medium and a safe investment for their savings by ordering the issue of $10 refunding certificates was defeated by the manner in which the treasury officials permitted their distribution. The total amount of $40,012,750 was issued. Of this a very small proportion got into the hands of the masses. The certificates were bought up in large quantities by speculators and all but $5,000,000 have already been refunded. The poorer classes, for whose benefit they were ordered to be issued, never got possession of them, as is shown by the fact that they have been turned into the treasury in average sums of $5,000.

FROM the speeches of Mr. Sherman in Maine and Ohio it might be inferred he was an original abolitionist of the Garrison, Phillips and Gerrit Smith—no, we will withdraw the latter name, as Gerrit Smith contributed largely from his means to aid the blacks, which Mr. Sherman has not done—and had always been a consistent and vigorous enemy of slavery like John Brown. But the record does not justify the pretension, which he now conveniently sets up for a political object. He was a member of the XXXVIth Congress, and early in February, 1861, he introduced the following resolution, which passed the House:

That neither the Congress of the United States, nor the people or Governments of the non-slaveholding States, have the constitutional right to legislate upon, or interfere with slavery in any of the slaveholding States in the Union.

John Sherman, and others like him go about declaiming that the blacks of the South are on their way back to slavery, and therefore Foster must be elected Governor of Ohio, to prepare the way for the nominating of Sherman by the Republican Convention next year.

Every indication now points to a revival of business all through the country. The Boston Post very truly says: "When Mr. Tilden gave it as his opinion that the next four years would be a term of great, if not unexampled, prosperity on a solid basis, he undoubtedly voiced the opinions of all the shrewdest business men of the country, and added one more instance of sagacity to the many by which his life has been distinguished. It is almost inevitable that the era upon which we are entering should be full of healthy activity for industry, trade and commerce. Natural causes and natural law will make it so. The crisis has been passed, improvement visible to all discerning eyes has set in, and now all that is necessary for the people of this country is to stand aside and not interfere with the workings of Providence. The feeling of assurance and stability for which we have been waiting has taken possession of the various circles of business and there is general belief that as sure as the laws of cause and effect are kept in operation, so sure are we to have a better business this coming fall than has been known before since the period of depression fairly set in. If this does not prove so, then some of the best business heads in the country will lose faith in their ability to read the signs."

SOUND YOUR OWN TRUMPET.

In another column may be found a communication from a young gentleman of Raleigh, now on a visit at Lynchburg, Va., which contains some striking points for Raleigh people to consider and study well. This city is located favorably in many respects: railroads pass through it running north and south, east and west, furnishing easy communication with any section of the State so far as railroad facilities are concerned; it is a cotton center, and also lies in the center of a large tobacco-glowing district; it is a remarkably healthy place, and yet it gains population only by natural increase. Capitalists from other States fail to settle here, although the facilities for trade and making paying investment of capital are most excellent.

There must be some reason for this neglect of the outside world. The capital city of the State is actually nothing more than an overgrown village. Remove the seat of government to another more enterprising place, and Raleigh would be as completely dropped from the minds of the people of other States as Milledgeville since Atlanta was constituted the capital of Georgia. And if we do not waken from this lethargy ere long Durham or Winston will come some fine night, carry off the State house and have the machinery of government running before we are aware of our loss.

There is only one remedy for this shameful neglect of Raleigh's interests, and that is business must be increased and such increase must be heralded abroad. We must do business and "blow our horn"—blow, anyhow, whether we do business or not. Five years ago Durham was almost unknown; now it is the best-known place in the State.

And why?

For the simple reason that enterprising men have settled there and advertised their business abroad. It may be truthfully said that there is scarcely a fence between the Gulf of Mexico and the St. Lawrence but contains the word "Durham" in large letters. The people of Raleigh once let a splendid business chance slip through their fingers. This evil may never be fully repaired—we cannot say; but it is worth the effort.

Let our people shake off this old fogy conservatism and show more enterprise. Let them make the effort and it will commence developing itself.

Then, and not till then, will Raleigh become a city.

ONE more little problem for Jay Gould's little statistician of the Tribune to ponder over. During the late Kentucky campaign some of the Republican papers attempted to secure a few votes for their ticket in that State—it is needless to say that they failed therein—by assaulting the former Democratic administrations in Kentucky, asserting that they had plunged the State into bankruptcy, having wasted the people's money and saddled a large debt on them. The story was merely a Republican campaign fiction without the least foundation in fact, a roorback with which it was hoped to win a few votes for Evans before the Democrats would be able to contradict it. The Republicans were mistaken, however, in their calculations. The Courier-Journal took up the charge at once and choked it to death with facts and figures. Its statement shows that there is now in the State Treasury of Kentucky, in money or available stock which may be quickly converted into cash, $926,173, while the entire indebtedness of the State amounts to only $180,000, much of which is not due for sixteen years. In view of these facts the last Legislature felt justified in considerably reducing the rate of State taxation. There are few States in the Union that can make a better financial showing than Kentucky, and that it is in such a good condition is due to the fact that it has always been under Democratic rule.

SOUTHERN REPUDIATION.

The New York Tribune gives vent to a column of spleen in relation to the settlement of the onerous public debts of the Southern States, and asks: "Can it be expected that the credit and honor of the nation would be safe in the hands of those who repudiate State and local debts so freely?" The reasons for the settlement of the public debts—it is not repudiation—of the Southern States in the manner so piteously decried by the Tribune are well known to the people of the country, and the holders of State bonds professed to be satisfied under the circumstances. As Mr. Jay Gould carried none of this kind of scrip, it might be pertinent to ask the Tribune what peculiar interest it has in the matter of the Southern States' relations with their creditors. We say Southern States, for it is very evident that Mr. Reid mounted the tall tower and at that elevation could not see Massachusetts and certain New Jersey cities that laid at his feet, as well as many banks and once prosperous merchants who have compounded for settlement at from ten to thirty cents on the dollar.

Doctors Differ.

New York World.

Democratic statesmen call greenbacks debts or Treasury notes and promises to pay money, but they do not call them "money." Democrats hereabouts at least deny the right of Congress either to issue or to keep in circulation greenbacks or Treasury notes excepting as tools for borrowing money. On the other hand, Mr. Sherman declared at Steubenville that the aim of the Republican party and his own aim as a Presidential candidate of that party would be to "keep and maintain every dollar of paper money (346,810,000) in circulation," and yet, if rumor speaks truly, Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, is now endeavoring to bring the Supreme Court to say that any such purpose is forbidden by the Constitution!

A Question for "Honest John."

New York World.

Will Mr. Sherman now tell the country, what else either he or the Treasury or the Republican party or the Government has done to increase the value of the greenback dollar up to 100 cents in gold, excepting to prevent the banks from presenting their $125,000,000 of legal tenders for redemption? His Steubenville speech on resumption was an impudent and almost blasphemous attempt to arrogate to himself the doing of things accomplished by laws of nature over which he had no more control then over the movements of the planets and the precession of the equinoxes.

It Does More to Help.

Philadelphia Times.

The best Republican organ in this country at present is published in the capital of Mississippi and is edited by the chairman of the Democratic State committee. The Jackson Clarion does not advertise in its prospectus to work in the interest of the Republican party, but when it squarely defends the murder of Dixon it does more to help that party than any dozen Republicans organs of the ordinary type.

Edison's Electric Lights.

Philadelphia Times.

Mr. Edison again assures a waiting world that his invention for the electric light "is now nearly completed;" but relieves holders of gas stocks of some of their anxiety by the statement that "gas will still be of advantage in many respects."

Purely Accidental.

New York Sun.

Honest John Sherman says it was purely accidental that his recent remarkable order inured to the benefit of the First National Bank and Bank of Commerce of this city; it just happened so. What queer things coincidences are sometimes!

Prices of Coal.

The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company's circular, issued last Friday, fixes the following list of prices for line and city trade for the month of September. Lump and steamboat coal, $1.75 per ton; broken $1.85; egg, $1.95; stove, $2.10; chesnut, $1.96. These prices show a decline of 29 cents per ton on lump, steamboat and broken coal; 25 cents on egg and chestnut, and 35 cents on stave. The harbor prices will also be as follows; Lump, steamboat and broken, $3; egg, $3.25; stove, $3.15; chestnut, $3.20; pea, $2.

The Causes that Compel John.

Atlanta Constitution.

The causes that have compelled John Sherman to retire in confusion from the campaign in Ohio, will give that State to the Democrats in October.

The Best Evidence.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, Pastor of M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians; also those suffering from the same disease as afflicted the son of the Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, as there is no doubt about the curative powers of Vegetine.

NATICK, MASS., Jan. 1, 1874.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir, We have good reason for regarding your Vegetine a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age. For the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of his leg, caused by scrofulous affection, and was so far reducee that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying; two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him, as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him Vegetine, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed his studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of Vegetine, but lately uses but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully yours,
E. S. BEST,
MRS. L. C. F. BEST.

THE VICTOR BULLDOG DEAD.

Coachman Gives It Up after Whipping the English Champion.

N. Y. Sun.

The dog Coachman, whose victory over the famous English bulldog Gas, placed him as the first fighter in the country, died Thursday evening at the home of his trainer, but a short distance from the battle ground. After the fight on Tuesday, Coachman was carried from the pit fresh and lively. It was thought, however, that Gas would not be able to recover from the great strain to which he had been subjected in the struggle, lasting nearly three hours, and that his name of "the slayer" would pass to his conqueror, the Coachman.

Coachman was placed in a large box, lined with soft blankets, and the usual remedies to restore his strength were applied. His backers had no suspicion that he would knock under, and were making selections of the many offers to fight him. They had booked him for one fight for a purse of $500. Wednesday morning, however, it was evident that the brute could not live. He was made as comfortable as possible, his owner and his trainer watching over him all night and day. He was buried in the pit in which he fought. "This," his trainer said, "was the best place and best monument they could have for him."

The English dog Gas, it is said, died the night after the fight, but that is not positive.

A Devil-Fish Runs Away With a Yacht.

Charleston News and Courier, 20th.

While Mr. Henry May was fishing with a party on Thursday morning, near Fort Ripley, in the yacht Uncle Peter, and the vessel was lying at anchor, all of a sudden, without apparent cause, she started off at a frightful speed. The cause, however, was soon explained by a huge devil-fish rising to the surface of the water with the anchor rope fastened to one of its fins. A small fish boat was soon caught, too, by its anchor rope being entangled with that of the Uncle Peter. The fish then went straight for Fort Ripley with both borts, but as soon as it got near the shoal water it would shy off again and make for the channel. The fishing boat soon cut loose, but the Uncle Peter was carried twice around Fort Ripley, and it was nearly an hour before the devil-fish finally let go. The anchor rope was covered with a thick slime, which could not be removed. There was no harpoon on board the Uncle Peter.

Is it Possible

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvelous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

Sweet Odors.

Almost every flower that possesses a desirable odor is used in the Unique Perfumes made by Dr. Price. It is from these rich blossoms that Dr. Price's Perfumes obtain their peculiar sweetness and floral character. His Floral Riches, Pet Rose, Lily of the Valley and Evening Violet are the fashionable odors.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Infallibly Cure all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Scaly Eruptions, Itchings, and Irritations

The testimonials of permanent cures of Skin and Scalp Diseases which have been the torture of a lifetime by the Cuticura Remedies, are more wonderful than any methods or remedies known to the medical profession.

Cuticura Resolvent, a powerful Blood Purifier, is the only purifying agent which finds its way into the circulating fluid and thence through the oil and sweat glands to the surface of the skin, thus destroying the poisonous elements with which these vessels have been daily charged.

Cuticura, The Great Skin Cure, applied externally, arrests all unnatural or morbid growth which cover the surface of the diseased glands and tubes with Scaly, Itching, and Irritating Humors, speedily it removes them, leaving the pores open, healthy, and free from diseased particles of matter.

Thus internally and externally do these great remedies act in conjunction, performing cures that have astonished the most noted physicians of the day.

Salt Rheum for 30 Years

On the Head, Face, and Greater Parts of the Body, Cured.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen, I have been a great sufferer with Salt Rheum for 30 years, commencing in my head and face and extending over the greater part of my body. I have taken gallons of medicines for the blood of different kinds and tried good physicians, all of which did me no good, and I came to the conclusion that I could not be cured. But a friend called my attention to an article in the Union on skin diseases, and I got a box of Cuticura. The first application was a great relief and the third took the scales all off, and I felt like a new man. I have used three 50-cent boxes and my skin is smooth and I consider myself entirely cured. Hoping that this may be seen by some one afflicted as I have been if there is any is my earnest wish. And I cheerfully recommend it to all persons afflicted with like diseases. Yours truly,

B. WILSON LORD.

Agawam, Mass., Sept. 9, 1878.

The Cuticura Soap should be used for cleansing all diseased surfaces, as most soaps are injurious to the skin.

LEPROSY.

A Modern Miracle. Astonishing Results from the use of Cuticura.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen.—We have a case of Leprosy in our poorhouse which is being cured by your Cuticura Remedies. The county had employed all of our doctors and had sent to New York for advice, but to no avail.

The patient commenced using the Cuticura and immediately began getting better. He had been confined to his bed for two and one half years. Had not had his clothes on during this time. Last week he dressed for the first time.

When he walked, there would at least one quart of scales come off of him.

This happened every day.

We think it is a wonderful cure.

We do not think he is cured, but he is in a fair way to be cured to say the least.

Yours truly,
DUNNING BROTHERS,
Druggists and Book ellers.

Allegan, Mich., Feb. 11, 1879.

Note.—Messrs. Dunning Brothers are thoroughly reliable gentlemen, and were unknown to us prior to the receipt of this letter. We firmly believe this Cuticura will permanently cure this very severe case of Leprosy, as it has done many others.

Prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, 360 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., and for sale by all Druggists and Dealers. Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes containing two and one half times the quantity of small, $1. Resolvent, $1 per bottle. Cuticura Soap, 25 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 75 cents.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

——The first bale yesterday.

——Revenue receipts yesterday $6,-858.39.

——How about those tobacco warehouses?

——Nothing at the Justice's Courts yesterday.

——Mrs. Julius Lewis, we are sorry to learn, is quite ill.

——Judge Reade and lady have returned and are at the Yarboro.

——The colored Baptists had a festival at Metropolitan hall last night.

——The usual brightness of the moon Sunday night was noticed by many.

——The fall term of the Raleigh Female Seminary will open Wednesday, September 3d.

——John Moore, colored, was released from "durance vile" yesterday, having given bond.

——With the return of the "r" months comes a more peaceful and contented feeling to the oyster dealer.

——Peter Plummer and Willis Trice paid their costs, and were released from hotel de Nowel yesterday.

——There has't been a cow seen in the middle of the streets for weeks—they always block up the sidewalks.

——Dr. Pritchard is to be installed as President of Wake Forest College tomorrow. A large crowd is expected.

——The reporter learns that the wife of the Rev. Dr. Brooks of Wake Forest College is lying dangerously ill at that place.

——Mr. Pomp Bryan has furnished himself with an office, adjoining his bill boards between the Bagley and Pullen buildings.

——Governor Jarvis received a letter yesterday from Beaufort, stating that his walking cane, lost during the late disaster, had been found.

——A large number of graded school children were on the streets yesterday. And so were your—pigs and your—cows and your—geese!

——A special meeting of Wm. G. Hill Lodge, No. 218 will be held to-night at 8 o'clock, for work in the 3rd degree.
B. C. MANLY, W. M.

——Dr. Skinner was formally installed as pastor of the Salisbury Street Baptist church Sunday night, in the presence of a tremendous audience.

——Three hundred and seventy-eight pupils registered at the opening of the Centennial Graded School yesterday. Five hundred and forty-eight had been enrolled at sundown.

——Mr. Julius Lewis is expected home to-day, in response to a telegram stating the extreme illness of his most excellent lady. At a late hour last night Mrs. Lewis was unchanged.

——The Rev. John W. Primrose filled the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church yesterday. His sermons were highly complimented. He is justly regarded as one of the first divines of the North Carolina Synod.

——A band has been engaged for the excursion to Wake Forest College tomorrow. The excursion leaves the same time as the regular mail, extra coaches being attached for the excursionists. Round trip, 50 cents.

——We learn that the meeting commenced at Ebenezer on Sunday, by Dr. J. B. Bobbitt, continues with great interest. The congregations are large, and a profound seriousness pervades the entire audience. A number of penitents and conversions are reported.

——Some of the boys who are in the habit of visiting the old cemetery on Sunday afternoon's, are also in the habit of displaying their spencerian accomplishment by scribbling on the marble headstones. Mr. Holt, the sexton, says he proposes to have the ugly practice discontinued "though the heavens (or those boys) fall."

——In the advertising columns will be found a notice announcing a dividend of 3 per cent, on the capital stock of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad. As this is the first dividend for nine years it will no doubt contribute to the stockholders' happiness. The NEWS is informed that no road in the South is in a better condtion.

——Ancient Rome was once saved by the cackling of geese, so history says, and in return for their energetic serenade they were at once classed as sacred birds. By the appearance of the streets, Raleigh ought to be a much-saved city, but the sacredness of the birds will not save them from the roast when darkey spoiler reaches for them.

——The families of the Rev. Dr Pritchard and his son-in-law, Mr. Jenkins, have taken rooms at the National, with several more to follow. The demand for rooms at this favorite hotel is so great that Mr. Street can hardly comply with the requests entered and do justice to the traveling public. Arrangements are being made to extend the southern front to Salisbury street, making the capacity of the house a half larger than at present.

Raleigh's First Bale

Mr. R. D. Weathers, of this county, brought in the first bale of cotton yesterday, It brought eleven and five-eighths, and was purchased by Messr's Rand & Barbee Bros.,

Information Wanted.

The mother of H. F. Badger is anxious to know where he is now living. She has not heard from him since November, 1877. He was then near Castalia postoffice, N. C. It is supposed he went to Florida. North Carolina and Florida papers will confer a great favor by publishing this. Information sent to Mrs. M. G. Badger, Richmond, Va., will be gratefully received.

Grand Matinee this Evening.

Some of the city geese are expected to swallow some grains of corn this evening on Market Square. A few of "those corns" are also expected to have a string, with a newspaper tied to the end, run through them; it is also confidently hoped that, after eating the same, the whole flock will go on an exploring expedition to—anywhere so they leave Raleigh.

A Long Ride.

Professor W. H. G. Adney, of Washington, Penn., is in town, stopping at the National, the guest of Dr. A. B. Chapin. The Professor started on his journey provided with a good horse and buckboard wagon and drove down through West Virginia and Virginia to Chatham county, where he has a farm, his trip taking four weeks. He holds the chair of agriculture and its co-relative sciences in the college at Washington, a chair established by Professor Le Moyne, of cremation notoriety. He will leave his family at his farm and return to Pennsylvania in a short time.

Distress in Carteret County.

In another column will be found a statement sent by Mayor Martin, of Beaufort. The appeal will no doubt be heeded. The NEWS was the first paper in the State to make an appeal for help from the people of the State, and it is to hoped that the State will furnish such aid without going beyond its borders.

Wake Forest College.

Information reaches the NEWS that the people around the College are growing more cheerful on the arrival of students; new and old ones are coming in on every train, but not half of the old students have yet arrived. Nearly sixty have already registered, and it is thought that by this evening the hundred will be completed. A good time is anticipated at the inauguration of President Pritchard to-morrow, and many visitors will be present.

Mayor's Court.

Anderson Raiford, colored, was before His Honor, yesterday, charged with larceny. Case postponed.

Two colored barbers were also on hand for an affray. One dollar and cost settled the matter.

A victim to Bacchanalian influences was fined $3.

Warrants have been issued for several young men charged with nuisance.

This ended the docket for the morning, then Billy smole a smile and made for his dusting brush.

Exemption from poll tax, on account of physical disability, was granted in some few cases.

The patch from the Smithfield road, near Auburn, to the Wilmington road, Dock Sandeford's, was by citizens of St. Mary's township, asked to be made a county road; and the public path through the lands of E. J. Jones and others, was prayed to be made a public road. The lawful notice was ordered to be given; work on the roads to be commenced in meantime, should there be no opposition.

The rebuilding of Battles Bridge across Neuse river, was awarded to W. V. Clifton, at the price of $725.00, Mr. C. having to await the convenience of the magistrates in paying this amount, the commissioners being restricted to paying $500. Troy Baucom, Hardy Poole and W. R. Poole were appointed to receive the bridge.

The assessors for the county at large were paid for their services.

The petition to discontinue New Road, leading from the Cook place to Huldah Harrison's, in New Light township was heard and the prayer not granted.

The rebuilding of the bridge across Terrible Creek, on the Coventry road, was ordered to be let out; Edmond Rowland Almond Austin and J. E. Fish, the committee.

The committee to examine the accounts of the late Clerk of the abolished Criminal Court made a satisfactory report.

Much school business was transacted, among which was the formation of a new district out of portions of White Oak and Buckhorn townships.

Some poor and work-house accounts were allowed, and aid given to outside poor.

The papers in the matter of the proposed road from the Johnston county line to the Sugg place, near Raleigh, withdrawn some time since, were returned, without further action by the jury, it being understood that a compromise road is under consideration.

The board passed upon several accounts.

Adjourned till 10 o'clock a. m. to-day.

TWO MODERN DROMIOS.

The Mistakes Which a Similarity in Names Occasions.

New York Tribune.

There are two men in Washington who for years have been like two Dromios, crossing each other and colliding in business and personal matters, to their mutual inconvenience. Their names are respectively William Bowen Moore and William Bennett Moore. The former comes from Urbana, Champaign county, Ill., and the latter from Urbana, Champaign county, Ohio. Some years ago both these gentlemen became prominent officials in the Treasury Department, and then their mutual troubles began. The one was Chief of the Supervising Special Agents, and the other Deputy Fourth Auditor. Mail matter seemed always to reach the wrong Moore first, and official and family secrets became common property. When Special-Agent Moore left the Department two or three years ago, he felicitated himself that in the long run he was one point ahead of his namesake. The son of the latter had sent from Norfolk to his father a barrel of exceptionally fine oysters, which fell into the clutches of the wrong Moore, and before the error was discovered they had been devoured. The troubles continue.

Recently, Deputy-Auditor Moore received a letter from a person in Ohio, who is said to be the private secretary of General Ewing, requesting in familiar terms, some information which the writer asserted would damage the political prospects of Secretary Sherman. Deputy-Auditor Moore is not in that business, and caused the letter to be forwarded to the ex-Special Agent. By some means its contents became known to an enterprising Western correspondent, and were published in Ohio, much to the chagrin of both the writer and the person to whom it was addressed. Ex-Special-Agent Moore now threatens dire vengeance against the Deputy-Auditor Moore for the betrayal of his secrets, and is said to have taken legal steps to secure his punishment. The Deputy-Auditor, a man of unimpeachable veracity, declares that he has no knowledge of the manner in which the contents of the letter came to light, and the correspondent who published the letter asserts that he never knew the Deputy-Auditor in connection with the matter.

A Disinterested Benefactor.

New York Sun.

Honest John Sherman boldly announces that he stands by his order of August 13th. The banks that profited by that order will naturally stand by Honest John Sherman, their great and —if we can take his word for it—disinterested benefactor. He has a very judicious way of casting his bread on the waters—has Honest John.

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. —The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, ESQ., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully, WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me. The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WADDILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News.

An old physician retired from practice had placed in his hands by an East Indian missionrry the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French or English. Sent by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Shearar, 149 Powers Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Weather Probabilities.

Cold, with high winds and rain. Exposure to this weather is sure to produce colds and kindred diseases; and the best remedy we know of is Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. Always keep it in the house, and you will be on the safe side. *

"Let Them Not be Confounded!"

There is so much said in the papers of the day about the action of the Constitutional Convention of the State of Louisiana just adjourned, that it is but proper to notify, the people, that the State indebtedness in no way affects the management and the plans of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, which, since its incorporation in 1868, has never scaled it scemes or postponed its drawings, but, with strict integrity, has observed its pledges to the public inviolate, and has hence derived a popularity unheard of since the days when General George Washington drew a lottery under the authority of the Continental Congress, to carry on the War for Independence. The next—the 112,—monthly drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery will occur on Tuesday September 9th, and any information can be had on application to M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692 New Orleans, or the same at No. 310 Broadway, New York City.
